Probus club started with 60 new members

A new club for retired men got off to a good start last week when 60 people gathered for the first meeting at the Nottawa Inn.

The Alliston Probus Club is the eighth in Canada and is sponsored by the Rotary Club.

Those at the meeting were told about the club which is being formed to offer retired and semi-retired professional and business men an opportunity to meet with others who have similar interests.

Rotary club president Tim Baker-Featce opened the meeting by wishing the new club well.

A steering committee composed of Art Connard, Harold Ross, Dick Hurley, Len Guhardt and Bill Wood will bring a proposed date of officers to the next meeting to be held at the Inn at 10 a. m. on Tues., Oct. 11.

Probus elects executive

The Alliston Probus Club started its second year last week by electing a new slate of officers.

Robert Stewart takes the position of past president while Harold Ross becomes president and Art Consaul vice president.

Elected to the executive committee were Rod Bradfield, Bob Bryant, Joe McCarroll, John Morris, Paul Nielsen, F. Norman Scott, Bill Stevenson and Kenneth Walker.

The club has doubled in size from its first meeting which saw 50 people in attendance.

At the annual meeting Edna Anderson, MP (PC - Simcoe Centre) was the guest speaker. The club, which has received a federal government grant, welcomed Anderson to its anniversary meeting.

The Alliston club is part of Probus Canada, an organization established for retired business and professional men.
